

Andrea Rahlf - retired healthcare administrator, wife, mother, grandmother

Andrea Rahlf was born and raised in Illinois and lived in the Chicago area for over 20 years before moving to Colorado in 2008. She has a bachelor's degree in elementary education from Iowa State University and a master's degree in family development from the University of Iowa. Most of her career was spent working in Chicago as a healthcare administrator at Northwestern University Medical School, Lurie Children's Hospital and the University of Illinois College of Medicine. Andrea is board certified as a Medical Practice Executive through the American College of Medical Practice Executives. During her career she managed many large physician practices in psychiatry, pediatrics, internal medicine and general surgery. She is currently semi-retired and works part time in the Graduate Medical Education department at Saint Joseph Hospital in Denver, Colorado.

Andrea and her husband Randy have two sons and a daughter who are all grown. Two daughters-in-law, a son-in-law and eight grandchildren. When she's not at work she enjoys writing, yoga, volunteering and taking care of her grandkids. Andrea and Randy are both private pilots and for many years owned a Cessna 182. Over the years, the hobbies they have enjoyed together have been flying, traveling and taking trips on their Harley Davidson. They also own a boat and love to fish.

After retiring from her full time career, Andrea's focus has been on healthy transitions to retirement and finding her purpose. She is interested in helping others who are going through issues related to retirement and loss.
