

Lindsey Robinson is a Registered Nurse practicing in the Washington, DC area. In addition to her nursing career, Lindsey has recently started her own business focused on the healing and spiritual growth of others. She is a Reiki Master Teacher and is certified in several energy healing modalities, in addition to being an advocate for essential oils. She continues to strive to expand for her own personal growth, and also to provide more modalities for her clients. She is very involved in her local metaphysical community, and is always working with her colleagues to explore methods to be active in educating the local community. When not working, she is often found amongst her cats, or playing outside in the dirt with her horse. She is also an avid belly dancer and loves spending her time outdoors. To contact Lindsey, please visit her at LunaPathWellness.com.

