

Originally from Scotland, Donna Wade has lived and worked in some rather interesting corners of the world in one capacity of service or another, happily helping people to live joyful, complete, and fulfilled lives. As a vibrantly alive cancer thrivers, she is a budding natural health advocate, is an active member of several holistic health organizations, and her voice has been heard as a guest speaker, both live and virtually, as well as in print.

Drawing from her own personal life experiences and cancer healing journey, nothing brings Donna more joy than to help people make practical, lasting health changes in a fun and simple way. Bettering people's lives is what fuels her drive and making a positive difference in the quality of an individual's life is what she thrives on. When Donna is not inspiring lives she is either catching up with family and friends from around the world, down by the river with a good book watching manatees and wild dolphins play, or dancing to the grooves of a funky live band. Family gatherings, long walks in nature, a great book, and the mystical flavors of exotic spices and tasty teas are just a few of her favorite things. If you're curious to know more about Donna's services and offerings, you're invited to visit her home on the web at PictureGreatHealth.com.
