

Nikki Milton is the owner of Marvel Marketing Squad, a content marketing agency in Denver. She is a brand champion and storytelling superhero. She uses her superpowers of creativity, organization and expertise in digital communication to be a reliable and dependable marketing partner. This skillset empowers her to showcase people and companies based on their brand. A client champion, she creates and weaves brand stories and promotes them through idea generation, content management, and storytelling strategies.

She consistently saves the day by sharing passion and promoting purpose to achieve a powerful impact. She has a room in her house dedicated to board games, comic books and superhero toys. Nikki is a mother, Girl Scout leader, and a master at speaking in memes and GIFS. You can check out her business at marvelmarketingsquad.com.

